Woman hit by truck, dies in Banihal

RAMBAN, Jul 28 (Agencies): A woman was crushed to death by a speedy truck in the Lamber toll Plaza area of Banihal on Srinagar Jammu National Highway Thursday afternoon.

The incident was recorded in CCTV cameras installed alongside NH-44. Police said that a woman, identified as Amina Begum, 30, wife of Muhammad Iqbal Wani, resident of Lamber, Banihal, died after a truck, bearing registration number RJ07GD-2498, hit her near Lamber on Srinagar Jammu National Highway.

"The woman was crossing the road when this incident happened. As she had received critical injuries, she died on the spot," a senior police officer informed.

As the news of the accident spread, the people, including the relatives of the deceased, assembled at Lamber and held a protest. The protesting locals blocked Srinagar-Jammu National Highway.

The locals said that they had been demanding foot over-bridge or pedestrian over-bridge since the completion of four-lane work by the concerned construction company NHAI. "The officers had assured us that the bridge would be constructed for the safe crossing of people and students. But the work on the foot over bridge has not started till date," they alleged.

Later, SHO Banihal Inspector Muhammad Afzal Wani, SDM Banihal Zahir Abbas and DySP Banihal Nisar Khoja reached the spot and assured the people to redress their grievance.

On the assurance, the protestors dispersed and the body was shifted to SDH Banihal for postmortem and other legal formalities.

Labroo expresses displeasure over lack of seriousness of Govt towards Kashmiri Hindus

TOP NEWS REPORT

JAMMU, Jul 28: The state president of Jammu and Kashmir Adarsh Sangram Party expressed his displeasure over the lack of seriousness of the government towards the illegal occupation of lands and properties of the minority community the Kashmiri Pandits in the Kashmir Valley and appeals to LG Manoj Sinha to do all efforts to made all possible to remove the same

While expressing his sorrow in the press statement issued here today the Jammu and Kashmir Adarsh Sangram Party state president Inder Labroo has said that all the successive governments have never shown sensitivity over the issue and entirely fails to redress the grievances of the minority community of kashmiri Hindus at large.

Taking the state government under the leadership of the BJP with open arms, the state president of the Jammu and Kashmir Sangram Party, Inder Labroo, has presented before the state governor to make immediately intervene on the lands and properties of the Kashmiri Pandits in the Kashmir valley which has been illegally occupied by the some few people of the majority community unlawfully and without any fear or fright.

Labroo has made efforts to reminder the State LG and said that present Governor Manoj Sinha has also committed and make the promise to remove the illegal possessions of Kashmiri Hindus in Kashmir valley two years ago but has failed to address the grievances of the minority community till date for the unknown reasons known by themselves.. Labroo has further asserted in the press statement and said that during the adverse conditions in the Kashmir Valley in 1990, the movable and immovable lands and properties of the Kashmiri Pandits left in the valley during the unfortunate exodus of the minority community though were forced to flee from the Kashmir Valley at that time. He said that It is a miracle at all that few profiteers and vested interest people of the majority community have illegally occupied the immovable and moveable property, which has not been removed even after many complaints have been filed by our community brethren across the state.

Expressing his concern over this sensitive issue, Labroo has further said that in 1997, the state government has restrained the people of state for any type of sale deed agreement by means of the act but how the incorporated law being violated is matter to learn within the sphere of all state population and generations. He exemplified and said more that decorated law was being violated despite the banning the purchase and sale of minority lands and properties of Kashmiri Hindus, for which those sitting on chairs in state administration are fully responsible.

Labroo has again and again appealed to the authorities in the presence of the current lieutenant governor of the state to consider the seriously the matter and important issue of the unconstitutional and illegal acquisition of the lands and properties of the minority community and resolve the same on the war foot basis and by means of immediate concrete measures against illegal possessions he said".

In his ongoing press statement, Labroo has further said that it is sad and regrettable that why the legislators and public representatives in the country have remained silent over this serious issue till date and two years ago, the state lieutenant governor asked the minority community to file complaints, but how many cases have been dealt with or acted upon in the presence of the current government. He has further said that despite obtaining orders from the honourable Supreme Judicial courts, some families of the minority community are still struggling to remove the illegal encroachments, which is a matter of grave concern. He has also appealed requests to state LG Manoj sinha to seriously consider the problems faced by the minority community, which include providing flour and rice and increasing the monthly assistance for the poor families of the community besides ensuring the supply of drinking water smoothly.

DRUG ABUSE INVITATION TO DEATH

In addition to alcohol, cannabis, opium, many new and fast-acting drugs have been invented today, which are more deadly than the old drugs.

Liquor is born on earth along with humans. It is also included in the gems obtained from the churning of the ocean. Increasing prevalence of alcohol consumption among the youth is an ominous sign for the society. It is also a major source of income for the governments; Morphine is made from opium. It is more intoxicating than opium. People accustomed to it use it as an injection; Heroin is made from morphine and is ten times more intoxicating than it. It is consumed in abundance; Hashish is obtained from cannabis. It is burnt and used like a cigarette; Brown sugar is impure heroin. It is used by mixing many other substances and becomes a kind of poison; Some people use L. S. D to relieve mental stress; Smack is the most dangerous drug prevalent among the youth. A person gets used to it in just two-three doses. It is very difficult to leave this addiction.

Whatever may be the intoxication, ultimately it is harmful to the human being. Today, the increasing trend of drug abuse in the society is a matter of great concern. On getting used to them, man becomes inactive and useless in every way. He wants to get these substances at any cost.

Today the unethical and illegal trade of drugs is in full swing. Many organized gangs are engaged in this business. Today these things are more valuable than gold and business-friendly.

The rate at which drug abuse is increasing among the youth is not only for them, but also for the country and the society. Today, to destroy a country, it is not war, but drugs that are needed. Terrorism and crime are also flourishing in the shadow of drug trade. People who earn money from drugs are heinous criminals. These young men and women make them addicted by persuading them or by making them consume one or two doses for free and then that person becomes their slave. This trend is increasing. Some youths are adopting it secretly and some are adopting it as pride. This is a trend destroying the lives of the youth. The problem of the spread of drugs is not of any particular person or country. This is an international problem. The network of drug dealers is spread all over the world. To not control it is to push the world towards a terrible destruction. Many countries have declared the sale or possession of narcotics a punishable offence. In many countries, there is also a system of death penalty for its illegal trade. Every civilized and farsighted country considers it a business of death. But it does not seem possible to overcome this crisis on the strength of laws. There can be a possibility of avoiding it by making the public aware of its danger and by behaving sympathetically with the young men and women suffering from its habit. The government will also have to control this by enacting the strictest laws and being constantly alert. Drug abuse is an invitation to death. Death is also very painful, death gradually afflicts the consciousness and makes it helpless! Drugs are now also being used as weapons. This is a disgusting way to hollow out the youth power of the opposing country and destroy it without war.

Agriculture faces a threat as man, animal conflicts begin to escalate part from the vagaries of the weather which pres-Hent a huge challenge to India's agriculture and food production, animals raiding crops constitute another, not insignificant challenge. In the plains of Uttar Pradesh, large herds of the antelope called "nilgai" and abandoned cows cause massive damage to standing crops. The nilgai, because of its name that ends in "gai" (cow), is assumed by villagers to have some association with the cow. That makes it holy, and the village people will not kill it even if it rampages through their fields. Explaining that it is a kind of deer, not a cow, doesn't seem to convince and nobody wants to take the risk of bringing upon themselves a heap of cosmic curses by taking the life of a holy animal.

By: Suman Sahai

Cows that have been abandoned have turned feral and also extremely aggressive. They move in large gangs and can decimate great tracts of standing crops in one visit. They charge at farmers who try to chase them away and, in several instances, have gored people seriously enough to cause death. So, farmers have started fencing their fields at great cost, a cost they can ill afford. Both the nilgai and the feral cows are not restrained by barbed wire which they break through, so in desperation, some farmers have begun to use the concertina wires used in high security areas. These wires have sharp blades along their length and when animals try to push through, they are lacerated by the blades, injuring themselves badly. This is causing a painful dilemma for farmers who do not wish to hurt animals, but have no other way of protecting their crops and livelihoods.

In mountainous regions like Uttarakhand, it is big gangs (technically called "sounders") of wild boar (wild pigs) that do the damage. Farmers are abandoning agriculture, leaving their fields fallow because the marauding boars come at night and dig up the fields, eating whatever is planted and destroying the field bunds and boundaries. The boar are also aggressive animals and in numbers they are dangerous since they attack when confronted. The male boar, which has one or two upturned tusks, can rip open a man's abdomen if threatened.

The other, more recent, problem in the hills are the rhesus, or the red face (and red bottom!) monkeys. These rhesus monkeys are not native to the mountain areas of Uttarakhand but have been trucked up from the plains, as one hears, where they have set up home in the shaded nooks of government buildings and where the packed lunches of employees provide rich pickings. The North and South Blocks of Raisina Hill in New Delhi, the seat of India's government, are preferred locations. Stories of marauding monkeys entering government offices and destroying files have appeared in the media. True or not, they have given a convenient excuse to the worthies in the government to attribute the disappearance of controversial, inconvenient files to the raiding rhesus monkeys! To rid themselves of the monkey pest, Delhi decided to collect the simians and truck them up to the hills. These monkeys, however, are not "wild" animals. Born in cities, they are urban creatures brought up on snatched human food. No wild berries or succulent leaves for them, their food preferences tend to parathas and sandwiches when they are not being fed bananas by devout Hindus propitiating the avatar of Hanuman.

Bewildered by the unfamiliar terrain in the mountains of Uttarakhand, they do not rush to the forest, presumed by North Block babus to be their "natural" home, but gravitate to inhabited areas because that is what they are accustomed to. In the hills, they descend on orchards and agricultural fields.

When they raid orchards, they eat some fruit and destroy far more, plucking the unripe fruit and throwing it down. In fields, they will eat what they want but will have uprooted many more plants by the time they leave. They are quite destructive, our close relatives after all!

This is a partial snapshot of how the man-animal conflict plays out in rural areas, where the livelihoods of farmers comes under strain because of the damage caused by animal populations that should be better managed.

Uttarakhand did for a while declare wild boar to be "vermin" that could be killed if causing damage to crops. The ridiculous condition was that a forest official had to be informed of a wild boar attack, and then he would come to destroy the animal. This assumed that the boar would hang around till the official arrived to slaughter them. Naturally they didn't, and the scheme did not work.

The culling of natural populations of fast-breeding animals like deer, boar, etc, is practiced in many countries, including most of Europe. This keeps the population at a manageable number such that their habitat can support. That way a man-animal conflict is avoided. This would be a solution for India if implemented sanely. Some wildlife enthusiasts would proclaim that humans have no place on this planet, whose original inhabitants were the wild animals, and the earth should revert to them.

Although I see a certain theoretical point in that argument, I am inclined towards a policy of coexistence as we are now also part of the ecosystem.

Colombo-Delhi card games: On China, Tamils & fishers

By: Padma Rao Sundarji

The relationship between India and Sri Lanka is like a game of cards, played at the same table, several times a year, with both sides especially coveting three particular cards. These are the China Card, the Tamil Card and the Fishermen Card. All three were in evidence during Sri Lankan President Ranil Wickremesinghe's first official India trip last week.

The China card: China's near-has said in several interviews. And yet, Colombo has repeatedly failed to prevent China from threatening India's security. In August 2022 and just a month after Mr Wickremesinghe took office, Chinese spy vessel Yuan Wang-5 docked in Colombo. Assurances flooded across the Palk Straits to pacify New Delhi at the time, but Colombo's China policy lacks clarity, to date. When an Indian interviewer asked Sri Lanka's high commissioner in New Delhi *India refrained from voting against Sri Lanka in global referendums.

*Well aware that Sinhala nationalists held the upper hand at least since the end of the civil war, India began to acknowledge the Buddhist majority nature of Sri Lanka.

*India didn't ignore, but no longer pandered exclusively to northern and eastern (Jaffna/ Batticaloa) Tamils. Instead, New Delhi began to focus on the sorry plight of tea plantation workers (also of Indian Tamil origin but unconnected to the separatist war), in central Sri Lanka. *Till earlier this year, India hardly ever raised the 13th Amendment in its bilateral sessions. There seemed tacit acknowledgement in New Delhi that no sovereign state would hand over police control to provinces where a 30-year-long separatist war had raged. In his speeches during his very first visit to Sri Lanka in 2015 and again on Buddha's birthday in 2017, Mr Modi made no mention of the 13th Amendment at all.

Nadu's fishermen poaching and being arrested in Sri Lankan waters are in Indian headlines every day. As are the losses incurred by their much poorer counterparts in Jaffna and Mannar, in the Sri Lankan media.

Consequently, the "Fishermen Card" has helped both countries - and regional capitals Jaffna and Chennai -- to cock snooks at each other, both on the domestic, as well as bilateral political front. Fisheries is a state subject, Tamil Nadu is not governed by Mr Modi's BJP. And yet, the subject was on the agenda in New Delhi last week. It was also wielded by Tamil Nadu chief minister M.K. Stalin as a stroke of domestic oneupmanship against both the PM, and the Tamil Nadu unit of his BJP. "Our fishermen face highly restricted access to traditional fishing grounds, increased harassment by the Sri Lankan Navy. Make all efforts ... and provide permanent relief," wrote Mr Stalin ahead of Mr Wickremesinghe's visit.

acquisition of Sri Lanka began under former President Mahinda Rajapaksa. He told this writer that China came in with investment only after India (then ruled by a weak, Congress-led coalition) had declined an earlier invitation. Today, Beijing holds, among other assets, a 99-year lease on an eastern Sri Lankan port and controls 43 per cent of reclaimed land adjacent to Colombo Port, which is traversed by 75 per cent of India's trans-shipments. Sri Lanka is part of China's controversial Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) and owes China $7.3 billion, a fifth of its overall external debt.

China feels so "at home" in helpless, debt-trapped Sri Lanka that it has sent naval submarines and a spy ship to "drop in" and intentionally provoke India.

However, there is no denying that China's overarching presence in Sri Lanka has also provided the latter a handy "card" to play in negotiations.

Mahinda Rajapaksa and even Sri Lankan Tamil politicians when urging India to invest in their provinces, have used the China card subtly and frequently, in bilateral and multilateral negotiations.

Mr Wickremesinghe, whose presidency is supported by Mr Rajapaksa, has frequently laughed off this writer's apprehensions about Beijing's stranglehold. "I don't know why you are so worried about China," he recently what Colombo would do if China sends another spy vessel, he could, at best, mumble "dialogue, dialogue".

Last week, Mr Wickremesinghe was between a rock and a hard place again. China wants to set up a powerful radar system in Dondra, in southern Sri Lanka, and the subject would have certainly been raised by India. But the visitor must have offered some guarantees, because several significant agreements were signed between the two countries.

The Tamil card: For Tamil Nadu politicians, this card has always been the ominous "joker" that made previous Congress-led coalition PMs quake with fear. The Tamil card ensured that India voted against Colombo in international forums like the UNHRC, over alleged atrocities against Sri Lankan Tamils by the Sri Lankan Army, during the 30-year-long civil war against the terrorist Tamil Tigers.

Till 2014, the Tamil card guaranteed that the Congress insisted on the "full implementation" of the now-outdated 13th Amendment to the Sri Lankan Constitution that promises maximum autonomy to Sri Lankan Tamils and was co-authored in 1987 by Rajiv Gandhi. From that year on, India-Sri Lanka relations changed dramatically under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's majority government. Pragmatism and realpolitik set in. But China's brazen excursions to Sri Lanka and Colombo's inability to stop them, changed all that.

India began to flex muscle.

Just after the spy ship's arrival last year, New Delhi warned Indian tourists -- the largest group of overseas visitors in the beautiful island-nation -- not to travel there.

In a statement at UNHRC in Geneva last year, India tore into Sri Lanka for not granting autonomy to Sri Lankan Tamils.

And at a public address in New Delhi last week, Mr Modi held up the trump card. "We hope that... Sri Lanka will fulfil its commitment to implement the 13th Amendment and... ensure a life of respect and dignity for the Tamil community of Sri Lanka," Mr Modi said.

The Fishermen card: Tamil

In the great game being played out in Sri Lanka and at least for the past year, India has maintained a steadfast upper hand.

Mr Wickremesinghe is being praised for controlling last year's catastrophic shortages. Goodwill for India is currently high in Sri Lanka too, given New Delhi's immediate tranche of $4 billion and its help with restructuring Colombo's debt both at the International Monetary Fund and the Paris Club.

Last Friday, Sri Lanka's President boarded his plane home with several deals and a good hand of cards in his briefcase.

However, his first official visit to the People's Republic of China is due in October.

Will the cards be reshuffled again?

SRINAGAR, Jul 28: On world hepatitis day, Doctors Association Kashmir (DAK) on Friday expressed pressing concern over surge in hepatitis cases which has reached to epidemic proportions in Kashmir.

"Drug abuse and unhygienic dental practices are responsible for hepatitis epidemic in the valley," said DAK President Dr Nisar ul Hassan

Dr Hassan said Kashmir is witnessing an alarming rise in drug abuse cases over the past few decades.

"Drug addicts are at a higher risk of contracting hepatitis and have the potential to spread this deadly infection to others," he said. In a recent study conducted at the Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences Kashmir, 72% drug addicts were found to have Hepatitis C infection.

"Research has found that each drug addict infected with hepatitis virus is likely to infect 20 others and this rapid transmission of the disease occurs within the first 3 years of initial infection," he said. The DAK President said another reason for high rates of Hepatitis infection is unhygienic dental practices in Kashmir.

In Chandigarh, Ranveer Singh and Alia Bhatt, seen together in Rocky Aur Rani KiiPremKahaani, echo how the experience of shooting was a delightful one Karan Johar's Rocky and Rani made a pit-stop on the last leg of their promotional tour in Chandigarh on Thursday, and totally won everyone's heart. Trust Ranveer Singh to make a grand entry; dressed in an ivory ensemble and glittering shades, he shook hands with everyone he could reach out to, broke into dance every other minute while Alia Bhatt looked every bit ravishing in a purple saree.

On the eve of their film Rocky Aur Rani Kii Prem Kahaani's release, they were hopeful it would click with the audience, as much as their friends and family did at a recent premiere. Karan Johar is back into the director's seat with this romantic family drama. It charts love story of a feisty Bengali journalist, Rani, and a flamboyant Punjabi munda, Rocky Randhawa. To prove their love to the families, they decide to live at each other's house. Sounds similar to 2 States? "Probably coming together of different cultures, that is the only similarity," quipped Alia. Ranveer jumped in, "Different cultures add to the celebrations, joy and experience. It happens in real life too, mujhe he dekh lo (he married Deepika Padukone in two ceremonies — Sindhi and Konkani — to respect their respective cultures).

Great experience The film was shot largely in Delhi, but a song sequence in Kashmir gave Alia and Ranveer a host of wonderful experiences, so did working with stalwarts like Dharmendra, Jaya Bachchan and Shabana Azmi. Ranveer got ecstatic while describing a scene with Dharmendra. "I had told everyone on the sets to let me know before he showed up. but somehow he reached and then I hurried. Between wishing him pairi pauna and revising the lines, as the camera rolled, I looked into his eyes and it dawned that it was Dharmendra, the superstar, who gave me the dream of becoming a hero. Trust me, it was as if my soul left the body for a second." Ranveer mentioned that something similar happened when he encountered Govinda and Anil Kapoor too.

For Alia, shooting the song Tum Kya Mile in the snowy Kashmir was a fantastic experience. "To wear chiffon sarees in a romantic number and that too in snow is every woman's dream, I loved realising it."

Ranveer also talked about his love for Punjabi music. "During the shoot of 83, Ammy Virk and Sagib Saleem introduced me to more of Punjabi music and I am in love with it ever since. As for Ammy, I really haven't met anyone this large-hearted." Among his favourite singers is the late Sidhu Moosewala; Ranveer also crooned Jatt Da Mugabala and Dil Da Nai Maada, Tera Sidhu Moose Wala spiritedly! Plot wise

Back to Rocky and Rani; when asked if she felt the pressure to upgrade her performance with each new project, Alia said, "The idea is to enjoy the process and not focus on the result, to tell the story in an entertaining manner and if the audience likes it, that's wonderful." Ranveer interjected, "I thought after Gangubai Kathiawadi, what would Alia do?"

The duo looked relaxed on the eve of their film's release, dancing on What Jhumka. Ranveer mentioned, "Ranbir (Kapoor) saw the film and told me 'you have played a Dilliwala before, but this one is different'— I was touched by the compliment coming from someone whose craft I have always admired." "With each of my projects, I give my best and then offer it to the audience, after all it's their

Aishwarya said,

"During the crocodile stunt, I found myself frozen with fear just at the sight of these intimidating reptiles. We couldn't get ourselves to pick the creature up despite Rohit sir's support and guidance. It felt like we lost a chance to shine and most of us deeply regretted not performing the stunt to the best of our ability. She added that it was unfortunate for them as the host was unhappy with their stunt. The regret got even worse when Rohit sir mercilessly bashed us and made his disappointment in us very clear. I think that's the motivato gather the courage to perform this blood-curdling stunt. I'm sure the viewers will not know what to expect while watching this stunt.

Anjum added, "The crocodile stunt presented the ultimate test of my courage and composure. Blindfolded, I had to navigate my partner while every wrong direction brought electric shock.

The weight of responsibility for my teammate, who had to handle the crocodiles, made me anxious. Rohit sir was right in reprimanding us.'

Amal Sehrawat talks about his journey so far

Harphoul Mohini actor Amal Sehrawat says that he got into acting through modelling, but his real passion lies in acting.

"I always wanted to experience different professions, and the only way to achieve that was to become an actor. From being a medical student until the 12th grade, I didn't know how to enter acting; hence, I took modelling as a stepping stone. I had a wonderful time being a model, endorsing top brands, and appearing on the cover page of Men's Health. I walked the ramp for a number of great designers and felt elated after doing a music video for Kailash Kher for the song Saiyan.

My family has always been supportive in all aspects," he says.

He adds. "Initially, I used to get stressed out because I wanted to prove myself, but it deprived me of 'being in the present' and enjoying things. With time, I realised it's more important to enjoy the process and be content; that's the real success.'

Refrain from indulging in theatrics, Rajya Sabha Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar tells TMC leader Derek O'Brien

Upper House adjourned for the day

NEW DELHI, Jul 28 (Agencies): Rajya Sabha session on Friday was abruptly adjourned by Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar for the day after a spat with TMC leader Derek O'Brien.

Dhankhar adjourned the proceedings after he was interrupted by the TMC leader over the issue of non-admission of notices given by opposition members under Rule 267 to discuss the Manipur situation.

As many as 47 MPs from parties ranging from Congress to Left, TMC and DMK had given notices under Rule 267 that calls for suspension of the listed business and taking up the issue of violence in Manipur.

Reading out the names of members who gave the notices - all from various Opposition parties - Dhankhar said, "All the notices are with respect to expression of their concern for the prevailing situation in Manipur."

The Chairman said that he had been facing the issue throughout the week. "In large numbers, members have invoked Rule 267 raising the same issue", he said. Dhankhar said a short-duration discussion notice regarding the subject was accepted by him on July 20 and the government also expressed willingness to discuss the issue under the rule.

The Chairman, thereafter, went on to say how the behaviour of MPs in the Upper House should be exemplary to the outside world.

At this point, Derek O'Brien stood up to press for the motion that opposition parties had been seeking to move since the start of the Monsoon session last week.

O'Brien, Leader of TMC in the House, thumped the desk to make his point. Dhankhar got annoyed and asked O'Brien to refrain from indulging in "theatrics".

"Show respect to the chair," Dhankhar said and added, "Don't thump the desk."

As O'Brien continued to argue, the Chairman adjourned the proceedings for the day. The House will now meet on Monday.

'Ulterior political motives': Opposition slams govt over extension to ED Director Sanjay Mishra

NEW DELHI, Jul 28 (Agencies): The Opposition slammed the BJP-led Centre on Friday over the extension of the tenure of Enforcement Directorate (ED) chief Sanjay Kumar Mishra till September 15, alleging that this was done with "ulterior political motives" and was aimed at targeting the leaders of the INDIA bloc with "false cases" to weaken the alliance.

The Supreme Court on Thursday extended Mishra's tenure till the midnight of September 15 in larger "public and national interest", after the Centre asserted that his continuity is necessary in view of the ongoing FATF peer review and attempts by India's neighbours to ensure that the country gets into the "grey" list.

The top court, which initially made a sharp observation and asked "are we not giving a picture that there is no other person and the entire department is full of incompetent people", subsequently relented and accepted the Centre's request for extending Mishra's tenure, but for a month less than what was sought.

Addressing a joint press conference outside Parliament, Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) MP Manoj Jha alleged that Mishra was given the extension despite an illegality.

"It has been done for ulterior political motives. There is talk on the corridors of power that there will be an attempt to break the INDIA alliance by resorting to lies. We know about this and we want to tell this to the government," he said. Samajwadi Party MP Ram Gopal Yadav said the Supreme Court asking whether there is "no other person and the entire department is full of incompetent people" was telling.

"There is an attempt to oblige one person and there is a conspiracy to trap opposition leaders in false cases," he alleged.

The Congress's deputy leader in the Rajya Sabha, Pramod Tiwari, also referred to the apex court's observation and wondered why Mishra was given an extension for only a month and a half and what would happen in this period.

"They (BJP) did everything to destabilise governments in Bihar, West Bengal and Jharkhand, but failed politically. Now, they are using agencies and want to slap false cases on opposition leaders.... INDIA has come to the fore and is saying BJP gaddi choro (quit power)," he said. Trinamool Congress's (TMC) Sushmita Dev alleged that the ED is a "weapon that works for the BJP".

"The Bihar, West Bengal and Jharkhand governments were targeted using agencies. They wanted to destablise these governments and weaken the INDIA alliance," she said.

Twenty-six Opposition parties have formed the Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance (INDIA) to take on the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) unitedly in the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

On July 11, the top court held that two back-to-back year-long extensions granted to Mishra were "illegal" and said the Centre's orders were in "breach" of its mandamus (judicial writ) in a 2021 verdict that the Indian Revenue Service (IRS) officer should not be given a further

had also curtailed Mishra's extended tenure to July 31 from November 18, 2023, when he was supposed to retire.

Mishra was first appointed as the ED Director for two years on November 19, 2018. By an order dated November 13, 2020, the Centre modified the appointment letter retrospectively and Mishra's two-year term was changed to three years.

The Centre also promulgated an ordinance last year under which the tenure of the ED and CBI chiefs could be extended by up to three years after the mandated two-year term.

Savita's wife Prema (70) and daughters Manjula (45), Anjali (40) and Ruby (30) died on the spot and another daughter Sudha was seriously injured, he said.

The bodies have been sent for postmortem in Unnao and Sudha is undergoing treatment at a Kanpur hospital, he added

The ambulance driver is safe but he is untraceable. A search is on for him and the reason behind the accident will be ascertained soon, Singh said.

Disguised as 'kanwariyas', gunmen shoot dead gangster near temple in Jharkhand's Dumka

DUMKA/JAMSHED-PUR, Jul 28 (Agencies): A dreaded gangster, wanted in at least 30 criminal cases, was shot dead near a temple in Jharkhand's Dumka district in the early hours of Friday by men who were dressed as 'kanwariyas', police said.

Amarnath Singh, a resident of Jamshedpur, went to Basukinath temple in Dumka along with his family to pay obeisance in the holy month of 'Shravan' when the gunmen shot him from point blank range, they said. The incident happened near Nandi Chowk around 12.45 am, said Dumka's Superintendent of Police (SP) Amber Lakra. Six empty cartridges were found at the spot, he said, adding that the post-mortem would reveal the exact number of bullets he received. Around 30-40 criminal cases were pending against Singh, most of which were registered in Jamshedpur, the SP said.

The gunmen are yet to be identified, he said. They took advantage of the ongoing 'Shravan Mela' and executed their plan by dressing up like 'kanwariyas', Lakra said. Millions of devotees, known as 'kanwariyas', undertake the 'Kanwar Yatra' every year during the month of 'Shravan' to fetch holy water from the Ganga and carry them on their shoulders for kilometres to offer it to Shiva temples. The 'kanwariyas' usually dress in saffron outfits. "It seems the incident is an outcome of gang rivalry," the SP said, investigation is underway.

Almost simultaneously, six members of Singh's gang were arrested from East Singhbhum district following an encounter with police on the National Highway-33 in Ghatsila police station area.

One of those arrested suffered injury in the leg, while some police personnel also sustained minor injuries in the gunfight, officials said.

East Singhbhum's SSP Prabhat Kumar said "criminals" should mend their ways or face stringent action.

'In greed for power, BJP playing with women's respect', alleges Rahul Gandhi

NEW DELHI, Jul 28 (Agencies): Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday alleged that the BJP in its "greed for power" is playing with "women's respect" as well as the self-respect of the country.

In a Facebook post, Gandhi shared a video montage built with media reports about incidents of sexual assault to attack the Central Government.

The video referred to such incidents as the sexual assault on two women who were stripped and paraded by a mob in Manipur, alleged sexual harassment of women wrestlers by outgoing WFI chief Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh, alleged killing of a woman in Uttarakhand in which the son of a BJP leader was accused, and the release of the convicts in the Bilkis Bano gangrape case.

Myanmar's Aung San Suu Kyi moved from prison: Party official

A source from another political party said Suu Kyi had been moved to a VIP compound in Naypyidaw.

YANGON, Jul 28 (Agencies): Myanmar civilian leader Aung San Suu Kyi, who was ousted in a 2021 military coup, has been moved from prison to a government building, an official from her party said Friday.

Suu Kyi has only been seen once since she was held after the February 1, 2021 putsch -- in grainy state media photos from a bare courtroom in the military-built capital Naypyidaw.

The coup plunged the Southeast Asian nation into a conflict that has displaced more than one million people, according to the United Nations.

"Daw Aung San Suu Kyi has been moved to a high-level venue compound on Monday night," an official from the National League for Democracy told agency Friday on condition of anonymity.

The party official also confirmed Suu Kvi had met the country's lower house speaker Ti Khun Myat and was likely to meet Deng Xijuan, China's special envoy for Asian Affairs, who is visiting the country.

A source from another political party said Suu Kyi had been moved to a VIP compound in Naypyidaw.

A junta spokesman told agency the meeting had lasted more than one hour but did not give details on what was discussed. There have been concerns about the 78-year-old Nobel lau-to 33 years in jail for a clutch of charges, including corruption, possession of illegal walkietalkies and flouting coronavirus restrictions

Rights groups slammed her trial as a sham designed to remove the popular leader from politics.

But many fighting for democracy has jettisoned her core principal of non-violence and taken up arms to try and permanently root out military dominance of the country's politics and economy.

The military has cited alleged widespread voter fraud during elections in November 2020 as a reason for its coup, which sparked huge protests and a bloody crackdown. Those polls were won resoundingly by Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy, with international observers at the time saying they were largely free and fair.

After the coup, many senior NLD members were jailed or sent into hiding.

In March, Myanmar's juntastacked election commission announced the NLD would be dissolved for failing to re-register under a new military-drafted electoral law.

The junta has yet to announce a date for fresh polls it had said it will hold.

More than 3,800 people have been killed since the coup, according to a local monitoring group.

Hong Kong court rejects government ban on democracy protest song drug offences and say

The song has raised the Hong Kong government's ire in recent months, as it has been repeatedly mistaken as the city's anthem, playing at international sports competitions.

HONGKONG, Jul 28 (Agencies): A Hong Kong judge denied on Friday a government request for an injunction banning "Glory to Hong Kong", a defiant anthem that emerged from the city's huge pro-democracy protests in 2019.

The Hong Kong government had in June requested an injunction order so that the song -- penned anonymously -- would be banned from being disseminated or performed "with the intention of inciting others to commit secession or with a seditious intent".

But Judge Anthony Chan wrote in his ruling on Friday that freedom of expression was a "highly important right" and that an injunction could cause "chilling effects" to innocent third parties even if that was not the government's intent.

"I cannot be satisfied that it is just and convenient to grant the injunction," said Chan, who is among a pool of jurists handpicked by the government to handle security cases.

"I believe that the intrusion to freedom of expression here, especially to innocent third parties, is what is referred to in public law as 'chilling effects'," he wrote.

"Whilst I entirely accept that no chilling effect is intended behind the Injunction, it is the duty of the Court to keep in mind that there is a whole spectrum of Hong Kong people" with varying degrees of knowledge about the injunction, Chan explained.

"Glory to Hong Kong" first emerged in August 2019 when the city was undergoing massive and at times violent prodemocracy demonstrations, with millions taking to the streets to demand political freedoms.

Its Cantonese lyrics integrated a key protest slogan -- "break now the dawn, liberate our Hong Kong; in common breath, the revolution of our times" -- and was widely adopted by protesters.

The song has raised the Hong Kong government's ire in recent cal dissent, and courts have penalised multiple people for performing it in public or circulating it online.

Technology minister Sun Dong this month said that tech giant Google had refused to delist "Glory to Hong Kong" from online search results unless the government had proof of the song's illegality.

government The application to ban the song, first announced last month, prompted a surge of interest and "Glory to Hong Kong" dominated the iTunes download chart in the city for days. Police have arrested 260 people under the national security law, with 79 of them convicted or awaiting sentencing in Hong Kong.

Ukrainian Drone Attack Thwarted By Russia In Moscow Region

MOSCOW, Jul 28 (Agencies): Russia's defence ministry said Friday it had thwarted a Ukrainian drone attack in the Moscow region overnight.

"The UAV was destroyed by means of air defence," the ministry said on Telegram, adding that there were no casualties or damage.

Moscow Mayor Sergei Sobyanin had earlier announced the attack, without specifying its location.

"An enemy drone attack attempt was made," he said on Telegram.

The attempted strike comes days after Ukraine claimed a drone attack in central Moscow.

On Monday, a drone crashed near the defence ministry in the centre of the Russian capital, while another hit an office building in a southern district. Moscow and its environs, lying about 500 kilometres (310 miles) from the Ukrainian border, had been rarely targeted until several drone attacks this vear

In early May, two drones were shot down above the Kremlin.

Moscow high-rises were hit in drone attacks later the same month.

Earlier this month, Russia said it had downed five Ukrainian drones that disrupted the functioning of Moscow's Vnukovo international airport.

The drone attacks on Moscow come several weeks into a Ukrainian counteroffensive to claw back territory captured by Moscow since large-scale hostilities erupted in February 2022.

US Secretary of Defence Austin attacks China's 'bullying behaviour' in Pacific

India and Japan look to collaborate in building semiconductors and resilient supply chains

NEW DELHI, Jul 28 (Agencies): India and Japan explored collaborating in critical technologies, including semiconductors and resilient supply chains, as part of plans to reach a target of $35.9 billion Japanese investment in the country by 2027, officials said on Friday. Foreign Ministers of India and Japan, S. Jaishankar and Yoshimasa Hayashi, met in New Delhi on Thursday and also discussed ways to deepen defense equipment and technology cooperation. Hayashi is on a two-day visit to the Indian capital

Russia's war in Ukraine has disrupted the global supply of parts and raw materials needed to complete a variety of products - from cars to computer chips

Hayashi and Jaishankar also emphasized the crucial role of a strong partnership between India and Japan in ensuring an open and prosperous Indo-Pacific region that is inclusive and rules-based, a statement by India's External Affairs Ministry said.

They discussed cooperation under multilateral and plurilateral frameworks, including the Quad grouping that also includes the United States and Australia, the statement said.

The grouping aims at countering the growing challenge posed by an aggressive China in the region. Jaishankar and Havashi expressed satisfaction at the strengthening of defense and security cooperation between the two countries, including regular exercises and talks between all three services, the statement said.

Indian Prime Minister Naren-dra Modi's ambitions to build a chipmaking industry suffered a potential setback earlier this month as electronics giant Foxconn backed out of a $19.5 billion semiconductor joint venture with Indian mining conglomerate Vedanta Ltd.

In February last year, the two companies announced their joint venture to manufacture chips and display panels in India.

India has made building a chipmaking sector a national priority as part of a self-reliance policy to secure stable supplies. It is offering financial incentives of up to 50% of project costs under a $10 billion plan for semiconductor and display manufacturing projects.

India and Japan share strong economic ties. Trade between the two was worth $20.57 billion in fiscal year 2021-2022.

Indian authorities to seek exemption from non-basmati rice export ban

SINGAPORE, Jul 28 (Agencies): Singapore is in close contact with Indian authorities to seek exemption from the country's ban on the export of non-basmati rice, the city state's food agency said on Friday.

"Singapore Food Agency (SFA) is working closely with importers to increase the import of different varieties of rice from various sources. Singapore is also in close contact with the Indian authorities to seek exemption from the ban," said a statement from SFA

On July 20, the Indian government banned exports of non-basmati white rice to boost domestic supply and keep retail prices under check during the upcoming festive season.

Non-basmati white rice constitutes about 25 per cent of total rice exported from the country.

In 2022. India accounted for about 40 per cent of Singapore's imported rice, said the agency.

Singapore imports rice from more than 30 countries.

Under Singapore's Rice Stockpile Scheme, rice importers must hold a buffer inventory equivalent to twice of their monthly imports.

This helps ensure an adequate supply of rice in the market, SFA said in a statement Countries expected to be hit by the ban include African nations, Turkey, Syria, and Pakistan, among others.

In the first quarter of the current fiscal about 15.54 lakh tonnes of white rice was exported from India against only 11.55 lakh tonnes in the year-ago period, which means an increase by 35 per cent.

Vedanta in process of tying up with world-class tech partner for semiconductor: Anil Agarwal GANDHINAGAR/ NEW DELHI, Jul 28 (Agencies): Indian conglomerate Vedanta's Anil Agarwal on Friday outlined ambitious semiconductor manufacturing plans for India, saying that the global mining company has identified a world-class technology partner and is in the process of tying up with them, its Chairman Anil Agarwal said on Friday. "Vedanta is fully committed to building a semiconductor and display fab. The kind of response we have got in Japan, Korea, America - the ecosystem will be to a new analysis by scientists.

The EU-funded Copernicus Climate Change Service (C3S) and the World Meteorological Organisation (WMO) noted that these temperatures have been related to heatwaves in large parts of North America. Asia and Europe, which along with wildfires in countries including Canada and Greece, have had major impacts on people's health, the environment and economies

Data shows that the previous hottest month on record was July 2019.

According to the new analysis, the global mean surface air temperature averaged for the first 23 days of July 2023 was 16.95 degrees Celsius. This is well above the 16.63 degrees recorded for the full month of July 2019, which is currently the warmest July and warmest month on record.

At this stage, the report said, it is virtually certain that the full monthly average temperature for July 2023 will exceed that of July 2019 by a significant margin, making it the warmest July and warmest month on record.

"The extreme weather which has affected many millions of people in July is unfortunately the harsh reality of climate change and a foretaste of the future," said WMO's Secretary-General Petteri Taalas. "The need to reduce greenhouse gas emissions is more urgent than ever before. Climate action is not a luxury but a must," Taalas said in a statement.

On July 6, the daily average global mean surface air temperature surpassed the record set in August 2016, making it the hottest day on record, with July 5 and July 7 shortly behind, WMO said. According to the dataset, the global mean surface air temperature reached its highest daily value (17.08 degrees Celsius) on July 6, 2023. During the first three weeks of July, global mean temperature rise temporarily exceeded the 1.5 degrees Celsius threshold above preindustrial level during the first and third week of the month, according to the report. Since May, the global average sea surface temperature has been well above previously observed values for the time of the year; contributing to the exceptionally warm July, it said. WMO consolidates data from C3S and five other international datasets for its climate monitoring activities and it's State of the Climate reports.

It predicts that there is a 98 per cent likelihood that at least one of the next five years will be the warmest on record and a 66 per cent chance of temporarily exceeding 1.5 degrees Celsius above the 1850-1900 average for at least one of the five years.

"Record-breaking temperatures are part of the trend of drastic increases in global temperatures. Anthropogenic emissions are ultimately the main driver of these rising temperatures," said Carlo Buontempo, Director of C3S.

"July's record is unlikely to remain isolated this year, C3S' seasonal forecasts indicate that over land areas temperatures are likely to be well above average, exceeding the 80th percentile of climatology for the time of year," Buontempo said in a statement.

First ODI: Kuldeep, Jadeja set up easy victory as India check out batting options vs weak Windies

For India, skipper Rohit came in as late as No. 7 and Kohli didn't even come out to bat

BRIDGETOWN, Jul 28 (Agencies): Skipper Rohit Sharma and senior pro Virat Kohli, who have 76 international hundreds between them, decided to give game time to middle-order batters as India beat West Indies by five wickets in the opening ODI, riding on exploits from spinners Ravindra Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav.

After Jadeja (3/37 in 6 overs) and Kuldeep (4/6 in 4 overs) set it up beautifully, shooting out the Windies for 114 in 23 overs, Ishan Kishan helped himself to a half-century (52 off 46 balls) in India's successful chase in just 22.5 overs.

With 12 ODI matches in hand to find the perfect combination and some pieces of the puzzle still to be fixed before the World Cup, Rahul Dravid and Rohit's decision to give game time to middle-order batters was a welcome move.

While it didn't exactly go as per plan for Survakumar Yadav (19), who played a non-existent sweep shot, and Hardik Pandya (5), freakishly run-out at the non-striker's end, Kishan did his cause no harm with his fourth half-century.

The chase was never a problem but the wicket did offer a lot of turn apart from bounce which made life difficult for batters from both sides. Left-arm spinner Gudakesh Motie (2/26 in 6.5 overs) did ask a few probing questions but the total didn't allow him to challenge the Indians more.

experiments and rightly so.

For India, skipper Rohit came in as late as No. 7 and Kohli didn't even come out to bat.

The idea was simple. Neither Rohit nor Kohli would gain anything by getting another halfcentury against a team like West Indies but giving a chance to check Kishan as the third/ reserve opener or Suryakumar as one of the middle-order options, provided Shreyas Iver fails to recover in time, would give them requisite confidence. With chairman of selectors Ajit Agarkar also present, these were some well thought-out moves as often the Indian top three have stacked runs. Also, when batting collapse happened in a knock-out game of a big tourney, the middle-order, with lack of game time, have struggled badly.

In the end, Jadeja (16 not out) also got 20-odd balls to bat and Rohit hit the winning runs. The ability to experiment with to trouble the batters.

Kyle Mayers wanted to free himself and only managed a slog that went to skipper Rohit Sharma at mid-on while Jadeja timed his jump to perfection at point to latch on to an Alick Athanaze (22 off 18 balls) slash after a brief but adventurous stay at the crease.

Shardul Thakur (1/14 in 3 overs) then bowled a perfect incutter to clan up Brandon King (17) as the gulf in standard was pretty evident, and why West Indies failed to qualify for the upcoming World Cup was as clear as daylight.

With the pitch offering a bit of pace, both Jadeja and Kuldeep were able to hurry the batters as Shimron Hetmyer's (11 off 19 balls) struggles were apparent while trying an ugly lap-scoop off Jadeja.

In case of another T20 star Rovman Powell, he couldn't gauge the turn that Jadeja got off the surface while Kuldeep forced West Indies skipper to try an uncharacteristic reverse sweep and embarrassingly get yorked in the process.

BRIDGETOWN, Jul 28 (Agencies): India captain Rohit Sharma cannot wait to welcome a fit-again Jasprit Bumrah back into the side before the 50-overs home World Cup, but is unsure whether he will have recovered from injury fast enough to be included in next month's tour of Ireland.

Pace spearhead Bumrah, who has not played international cricket since last September, is in the final stage of his rehabilitation after undergoing back surgery in New Zealand in March.

India will play eight limited-overs matches against West Indies before heading to Ireland to play three T20 Internationals there.

"His experience is crucial for the team," Rohit said ahead of the moment."

Meanwhile, BCCI secretary Jay Shah said Bumrah might be tested in the Ireland series. "Bumrah is totally fit and he may go to Ireland," Shah said.

Rohit also spoke about the Indian team's injury problems in their ODI setup and the need for having backups. "You need experience when you go into big tournaments. But when there are injuries, you just don't know what you can do about it," he said. "Quite a few players are injured from our team but we try to identify players who are going to play in the World Cup and give them as many matches as possible so that they get the experience. Along with focusing on the playing XI, we need to focus on other 15-20 players too because anyone can get injured," he added.

Shah said that with 12 ODIs left before the World Cup, the endeavour will be to have a consistency in selection. He made it clear that none of the World Cup-bound senior players will be selected for the three-match Ireland series.

Ashes fifth test: Starc contrast a toss and not surprisingly put England in to bat. Also unsurprising was the way in which England's openers, Ben Duckett in particular, went about their business, scoring at almost a run-a-ball in the opening hour.

Duckett struck Mitchell Stark for two boundaries in the fifth over, then flat-batted an 85 mph Josh Hazelwood delivery to the ropes in the next over, almost cutting fellow opener Zak Crawley in half at the non-striker's end. He had a let-off on

Cummins' first ball of the ell Marsh's first over, although it was a sharp chance. The missed opportunities were not too costly for Australia as Alex Carey gloved a catch after Duckett had guided a Marsh ball down the leg side, the decision being given after a DRS review.

Ultimate Table Tennis has been a boon for youngsters: Sharath Kamal CHENNAI, Jul 28 (Agencies): From winning India's first gold medal at the Commonwealth Games to gearing up to feature in his fifth Asian Games in September, A Sharath Kamal has seen it all in table tennis. His longevity has led to many memorable moments. With the latest season of Ultimate Table Tennis (UTT), he is looking forward to adding one more feather to his illustrious cap.

"It's quite fulfilling," the Chennai Lions captain told this daily. "It is satisfying that my journey has helped other youngsters. That is also a reason why I have been able to continue playing for a long time. "As a 22-year-old, I went into Europe in search of this very situation. I'm happy for the young players. They are getting this kind of opportunity in their own country. At the same time, they can have some amount of financial benefits from the experience that they are having," Sharath said. This season, the

After the COVID break, where most of the sporting activities were either banned or went ahead without any spectators, Sharath is extremely delighted to play in front of the fans once again. "It is better to play with the full house. In COVID-19 times, we were playing in some halls with completely no spectators," he said. I am pretty much sure this last week we will have even more numbers to come. With this kind of atmosphere, the best is always out of the players," he added.

COLOMBO, Jul 28 (Agencies): Pakistan completed a 2-0 series sweep against Sri Lanka after left-arm spinner Noman Ali bowled the tourists to a comprehensive victory by an innings and 222 runs in the second Test.

Having conceded a lead of 410, Sri Lanka's defeat was only a matter of time and Noman spun a web around the batsmen at the Sinhalese Sports Club (SSC) ground to claim a careerbest 7/70 as Pakistan romped home inside four days.

Angelo Mathews remained unbeaten on 63 but Sri Lanka, who managed 166 in the first innings, were all out for 188 in the second.

While Noman was the wrecker-inchief with his guile and accuracy, quick Naseem Shah claimed the remaining three wickets to secure Pakistan's biggest Test win in Sri Lanka.

"Very proud to win this series and all credit to the guys and the support staff for working so hard in the last three to four months," Pakistan captain Babar Azam said.
