Commercial LPG rate cut by Rs 39.50 per 19-Kg cylinder

NEW DELHI. Dec 22 (Agencies): Commercial cooking gas (LPG) prices were on Friday cut by Rs 39.50 per 19-kg cylinder in line with softening international benchmarks. However, the price of domestic LPG used in household kitchens for cooking purposes — remained unchanged at Rs 903 per 14.2-kg cylinder.

Commercial LPG - used in various establishments such as hotels and restaurants - will now cost Rs 1,757 per 19-kg cylinder in the national capital as against Rs 1,796.50, oil firms said in a price notification. State-owned oil firms last hiked the price of commercial LPG by Rs 21 on December 1.

Commercial LPG will now cost Rs 1,710 per 19-kg cylinder in Mumbai, Rs 1,868.50 in Kolkata, and Rs 1,929 in Chennai.

Rates differ from state to state based on incidence of local taxation. Saudi contract price (CP), the benchmark used for pricing of LPG, has softened in the last few weeks' oversupply concerns. State-owned Indian Oil Corporation (IOC). Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd (BPCL) and Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd (HPCL) revise cooking gas and ATF prices on the 1st of every month, based on the average international price in the previous month. The revision on Fridav is an outlier. Petrol and diesel prices continued to remain on freeze for a record 21st month in a row. Petrol costs Rs 96.72 per litre in the national capital, and diesel comes for Rs 89.62 per litre.

is a great indication towards the Rohingyas living in Jammu.

They have been spread across the Jammu division which is a great security risk and all of the, need to be detained and send back to their country.

As per the sources in the ground a tender was allotted for the cleaning of the railway station but it was sub leased to the company which has employed as Rohingyas as workers which poses a risk to the lives of the people as railways station has a high footfall.

War is now the only option to teach Pakistan a lesson. Holding talks with Pakistan is futile as it has never listened to the language of peace. Our jawans are being mutilated. How long are we going to tolerate this? Time has come to teach Pakistan a lesson. Modi government must declare war against Pakistan. The entire nation will back him.

The terror camps is POK which were destroyed during the surgical strikes have been working again ans this time a bigger attack should be done to destroy the terror camps once in for all.

DOGRI MANYATA DIVAS

Digital anguage spoken in Jammu, Kangra of Himachal and some provinces of Northern Punjab in India. In the year 2003, it was included in the Eighth Schedule of the Indian Constitution. In the family of western hill dialects, among the people languages of the middle hill belt, Dogri, Chambyali, Madawali, Mandyali, Bilaspuri, Bagdi etc. are notable.

Dogri is a special public language in this huge family for many reasons. Its first characteristic is that the number of its speakers is particularly high compared to other dialects. Secondly, in this family only Dogri is literary dynamic and prosperous.

The third specialty of Dogri is that at one time this language had been the medium of internal dealings of the state administration in the princely state of Kashmir and Chamba state. Due to this language, its speakers are called Dogras and the linguistic area of Dogri is generally called "Duggar".

The historical city of Jammu, the autumn capital of the princely state of Jammu and Kashmir, is the main center of literary practice of Dogri, where the representative organization of Dogri literary people, in the name of "Dogri Sanstha", has been striving for the literary welfare of this language for the last 60 years.. Dogri has its own script which is called Takri or Takri script. This script is quite old. Gurmukhi script is believed to have originated from this. It is known from some ancient copper plates of Kullu and Chamba that this script was initially developed in the 10th-11th century. However, many scripts falling under Takri category are prevalent in this vast region like, Lande, Kishtwadi, Chambyali, Mandayali, Sirmauri and Kullui etc. Dr. Grierson considers Sharda and Takri as sisters. Takri script is still used in bookkeeping in the rural community of Duggar. It also has a developed form in which many texts have been published. Kashmir King Maharaj Ranveer Singh, during his reign about a hundred years ago, had tried to reform the Dogri script in line with Nagari. The use of quantity and symbols was adopted and for the first time, Ranvir Press was established by the government in Jammu to make proper arrangements for printing Dogri language texts in the new Takri script.

Technology has taken away skills from man's hands and has created a counter-man against man

By: Vijay GarG

supporter of the nonviolent ideas of Mahat-Lana Gandhi and Vinoba Bhave was an Australian-born philosopher, Ivan Illich. His view was that vehicles had taken away the strength of human legs. Mechanical technology has taken away the skills of man's hands and efforts are being made against man to develop a replica of him in the form of 'robot' and leave man alone in the jungle of cement, concrete and machines. There is family and society, yet they are in the clutches of slavery of machines, their freedom By putting intelligence into the robot, we are busy making it the ruler of humans. Till now, the work of developing robots in new forms was done by humans in the form of scientists, but artificial intelligence has given such wings in the sky of technology that robots have now started updating themselves with the help of artificial intelligence. Whether the consequences of this power of automatic transformation of robots and creation of new robots will be fruitful or fatal, is in the womb of the future, but it is definitely a point to consider. The robot of the future will no longer be merely a mechanical human.Efforts are being made to transform it into a living human being with the help of machines and artificial intelligence. In this direction, American scientists have also invented a model of a living robot. A group of scientists has succeeded in transforming the living cells of frog embryos into other new life forms. In this, sense perception can be achieved through a device of minimum weight. Twenty-four sensory instruments are attached to it. It carries out work by sensing muscle movements and brain. It is called 'Esper Bionics Prosthetic'Named 'Hand'. Keeping it functional is done with the help of AI and cloud technology. Through this technology, data and programs available on the Internet are obtained. In the initial stage, the robot was a device made from the coordination of hardware and software. Initially its utility was associated with difficult and dangerous tasks within the reach of humans. In view of its effective productivity, changes continued in it and this technology was named robotics. Over time, living robots became living robots through the coordination of digital, AI and internet technology.A species of robots came into use, which were named 'Bionics' and 'Xenobots'. Scientists of the world have been making efforts to develop two types of artificial humans since the beginning of the twentieth century. One is 'Android' i.e. artificial human and the other is 'Cyborg' i.e. machine human. Scientists got the idea of creating such humans from fiction literature. Literature and science are two such subjects which have the power to make the present past and the future present in industries. These mechanical humans who used to do manual labor can now do it automatically with the help of artificial intelligence.While being operated, thousands of intelligent machines are becoming humans. The wonder of this artificial intelligence is that now there will be no need for any expert human being to guide it, rather it will remain active automatically with the artificially developed intelligence system in its nerves. Chat-GPT and Chat Bots software will be their tools, which will make them multilingual with advanced word-formation capabilities and will automatically become active towards solving problems. The world's scientists have created artificial intelligence in 'android' and 'cyborg' forms.I am trying to make a human being. Android means such humans, who are made in the laboratory only from organic compounds and are completely artificial. Their structure is similar to that of humans, hence these robots are also called 'human robots'. Well, we know the word Android very well as Android mobile. Battery operated moving dolls come in this category. In the present world, many types of artificial humanshaped robots have been invented and have come into discussion. various among the communityPerforming different types of roles. Among these, 'Ada' is a feminine robot, who has been considered the world's first 'robot artist'. Artificial intelligence is used in its eyes to detect cameras and objects. Through its performance at Oxford Ye Manav University, it proved how different people present art from different angles. Similarly, a Hong Kong company has given shape to a robot named 'Sophia'. It will become a symbol of the future in the field of artificial humans and intelligence. Is e. Its amazing uniqueness is that it is capable of capturing a person's imagination. It has proved its artificial intelligence in many TV shows and international conferences. It has made significant contributions to the latest research through ultramodern intelligence. Saudi Arabia has accepted its human incarnation by granting it citizenship. It has been developed with a view to work in the fields of education, research and entertainment. Now the world has moved ahead with the creation of robots that look like men and women. This China is leading in the race. Now robots like dog, cat, butterfly and other animals based on Android technology have come into existence. China has developed seven hundred and forty types of unique robots. These robots help us in our daily tasks and complete them easily. That is why they have been named companion humanoid robots. Among them, there are robots that prepare tea, coffee and serve food, but there are also robots that clean and keep the scattered items in their place. Therefore they are included in the category of professional servants.Has been kept. They are also capable of talking like humans. India is now taking initiative towards becoming a big player in robot manufacturing. India is far behind America, China, Japan, Germany and South Korea in robot technology. As a result, the government is coming up with a national strategy to give impetus to the robotics business. Under this, the government will provide financial assistance for everything from making robots to adopting robotics. A complete system of research and development will be developed in this field, starting from the necessary raw materials used in robots.'Robotics Innovation Unit' (RIU) will be established for this work. This unit will function as an agency under the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology, Government of India. At present, robots are used in India for everything from patient surgeries to automobiles. Its global turnover has reached $6.7 billion. India is still far behind in this field. Approximately 33 thousand robots are operational in all sectors together. Human robots invented by human intelligence are also proving to be Bhasmasur. kiss by robot The first incident of taking a human life has occurred at the car manufacturing company 'Fox Wagon' plant in Berlin, the capital of Germany. Here a robot caught hold of an employee in its claws and threw him to death. This robot was doing the work of assembling car parts. In this case, since the killer is a mechanical human, police action was also not possible. After all, no machine can be made an accused?

New Rajasthan CM hits the ground running

By: Dilip Cherian

_n a notable display of urgency, newly appoint-Led Rajasthan chief minister Bhajan Lal Sharma wasted no time in making his mark on the administration. Even as he is consulting the Centre on the composition of his cabinet, within hours of assuming office he announced the selection of three seasoned IAS officers for crucial roles in the Chief Minister's Office (CMO). Though it is pointed out that this is a temporary arrangement, T. Ravikanth was appointed as the principal secretary to the chief minister, succeeding Kuldeep Ranka who served ex-chief minister Ashok Gehlot. Adding further depth to Mr Sharma's team, Ms Anandhi, an IAS officer of the 2007 batch, assumed the role of Secretary to the CM, while Dr Saumya Jha of the 2017 batch joined as joint secretary to the CM, to inject fresh perspectives and youthful dynamism. Such prompt actions, observers note, not only set the tone for Mr Sharma's leadership but also underscore the urgency with which he aims to address key issues facing Rajasthan, as much as his desire to distance his government from the previous Congress government under Mr Gehlot. Still, these are early days of the administration and among Sharma's tasks will also be to show that despite his rookie status within the BJP, he has what it takes to do a good job. Security breach fallout: Time for a swift overhaul The recent security lapse at the Parliament has highlighted the inherent risks associated with prolonged vacancies in critical positions, emphasizing the urgent need for a reevaluation of our approach to national security. This most significant breach since the 2001 terror attack, has prompted a reassessment of key affairs, particularly the management of personnel at the highest echelons. One glaring issue lies in the extended absence of a full-time joint secretary to head the Parliament security service. Currently filled by Brijesh Singh, a director-level officer, the executive director (security) position at the Parliament has been vacant for too long. In the aftermath of the security breach, there was a presumption among officers across services that the executive director (security) would be promptly replaced. However, it was discovered that the vacancy had persisted since mid-November, following the departure of Raghubir Lal, a 1997-batch IPS offer to Uttar Pradesh as ADG (security) after completing an extended one-year tenure. similar upheaval. However, among UP babu circles the big question is whether chief secretary Durga Shanker

Further, the incident has woken up the government to the precarious situation of key central armed police forces like the CRPF and CISF, which have been operating under ad hoc arrangements for months. Notably, the post of CRPF Director General has been ad hoc managed by ITBP DG Anish Dayal Singh since the beginning of this month, replacing Dr Sujoy Lal Thaosen. Similarly, the DG CISF post has been filled by IPS officer Neena Singh in an ad hoc arrangement, since the retirement of Sheel Vardhan Singh in August.

Prolonged vacancies in such critical roles pose a direct threat to national security and demand swift action.

UP chief secy's next move remains a mystery

With the appointment of three new faces as chief ministers in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh, the Modi Sarkar, once again, revealed its penchant for unpredictability. The attention has now shifted to the intensifying politicking in Uttar Pradesh, where some punters are predicting a Mishra will get another extension of service.

Mr Mishra's trajectory follows a unique and unprecedented path. Originally the Union Secretary for Urban Affairs, he became chief secretary of Uttar Pradesh in December 2021. A growing consensus suggests that Mr Mishra's tenure may extend beyond this month, marking his third successive extension. But, unlike previous extensions, this one might be limited to six months.

If Mishra indeed secures another extension, sources claim that political rivals are expected to resort to legal challenges, as seen recently in similar cases like that of ED chief S.K. Mishra and Delhi chief secretary Naresh Kumar. However, the Centre has successfully navigated such challenges in the past.

Another school of thought suggests that after December 31, Mishra may wade into politics and potentially contest the 2024 Lok Sabha elections from UP. This however seems like a remote possibility given the Centre's likely reluctance to release him before achieving its Mission 2024. Mr Mishra is unlikely to defy the decisions of the Centre.

Threat of global conflict looms large, says IAF chief VR Chaudhari

Was addressing the inaugural of the 20th Subroto Mukerjee seminar organised by the think-tank Centre for Air Power Studies

NEW DELHI, Dec 22 (Agencies): Indian Air Force chief Air Chief Marshal VR Chaudhari on Friday said the landscape of international relations is shifting and traditional power structures are increasingly being challenged by new players and threat of global conflict looms large, fuelled by ideological divisions, resource scarcity and climate change.

These threats have created interconnected challenges like economic disparity and resource exploitation, ACM Chaudhari said.

He was addressing the inaugural of the 20th Subroto Mukeriee seminar organised by the think-tank Centre for Air Power Studies here.

"Our engagements with the countries of the Global South have resonated across the board and allowed us to exchange best practices, improve interoperability and build trust. These engagements are crucial for tackling shared security challenges and ensuring regional stability."

The IAF has increased the footprint of training and cooperation with these nations and the IAF conducts regular training programmes for these partner nations sharing best practices in the fields of operations and maintenance, ACM Chaudhari said.

He lauded the role played by the Indian Military Advisory Teams saying the courses short-term curated courses on specific areas of expertise for target countries could be formulated and offered on a regular basis, he added.

"India's growing indigenous defence capability has already opened the doors for partnerships and exports and in future establishing joint ventures with these nations can be mutually beneficial. This could involve co-development of components, sharing production facilities and creating regional maintenance and support hubs.

"Another area that we need to explore is joint research and development projects, defence innovation and technological exchange. The IAF can actively support initiatives that promote sustainable development in the Global South," he added.

"We must identify contemporary security challenges faced by India and the Global South, and create fora for discussing terrorism, cyber threats, regional conflicts and other shared concerns to create collaborative defence strategies to mitigate these challenges. These fora could be in the form of bilateral or multilateral defence agreements for conduct of joint military exercises, intelligencesharing and technology collaborations," he concluded.

Israel killed 11 Gazans in front of families, could lead to war crimes probe: UN

UNITED NATIONS, Dec 22 (Agencies): The United Nations Human Rights Office has called for an immediate investigation following reports that Israeli forces "summarily executed" at least 11 unarmed Palestinian men in front of their families in Gaza City. If confirmed, the actions of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) could amount to war crimes, it said.

According to the UN agency, the incident allegedly occurred when IDF troops took control of the Al Awda building in the Al Remal neighbourhood, where multiple families had sought refuge.

In a statement, the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) separated men from women and children before shooting the men "While in control of the men from the women and early 30s, in front of building and the civilians sheltering there, the IDF allegedly separated the and children, and then shot and killed at least 11 of the men, mostly aged in their late 20s their family members," said the UN body. The women and children were then confined to a room where they were subjected to violence, with some sustaining serious injuries, the OHCHR said. "The IDF then allegedly ordered the women and children into a room, and either shot at them or threw a grenade into the room, reportedly seriously injuring some of them, including an infant and a child," it said.

The OHCHR confirmed the killings but added that details and circumstances are "still under verification." It called for a prompt, independent, and thorough investigation into these allegations. The IDF has yet to release a statement

regarding the reported incident.

Reports of the deadly raid in Al Remal add to growing concerns over the conduct of the Israeli military campaign in Gaza, which has seen significant civilian casualties.

Top US officials have called on Israel to minimize deaths of civilians as it continues its military operations against Hamas in the enclave. According to Hamas, at least 20,000 Palestinians in Gaza have been reported killed since Israel began bombing the territory in the wake of the militant group's October 7 attacks.

The death toll marks the heaviest loss on the Arab side in any conflict with Israel since the 1982 Lebanon invasion.

Netanyahu's 'surrender or die' ultimatum to Hamas as truce talks hit deadlock

JERUSALEM, Dec 22 (Agencies): Negotiations for a truce deal between Israel and Palestinian terror group Hamas appeared to make little headway as fighting between the warring sides raged on in Gaza. Israel rebuffed demands from Hamas to permanently stop fighting in the besieged enclave, The Times of Israel reported.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu reiterated his country's long-standing position on the war that the fighting wouldn't stop at all unless Hamas was "completely destroyed" and hostages were released safe and sound. He said Hamas was given "a simple choice -- either to surrender or die" as they did not "have any option".

Here are the latest developments in the Israel-Hamas war: Netanyahu said after Israel achieved its goal of eliminating Hamas, he would "work with all my power" to ensure that Gaza no longer posed a threat to the hostages held by Hamas. In the previous agreement, Hamas released 105 hostages and Israel freed 240 Palestinian prisoners during a week-long ceasefire.

"We made clear to everyone in Israel and outside of Israel that it's time to renew the shaping up of new hostages (release) structure," the official said, adding that Israeli and Qatari officials met twice this week for negotiations on a new framework for a truce deal. In an interview with Qatarbased Al Jazeera news, Hamas spokesperson Ghazi Hamad asserted that the group was not keen on freeing hostages in exchange for a ceasefire as Israel would resume its hostilities in Gaza.

Al Thani and CIA chief Bill Burns earlier this week, a source familiar with the negotiations told news agency.

White House spokesperson John Kirby expressed hope that there would be some outcome in the ceasefire talks.

"These are very serious discussions and negotiations and we hope that they lead somewhere," Kirby told reporters aboard Air Force One. On the other hand, US President Joe Biden said, "We are pushing," news agency Reuters reported.

So far, Israel's counteroffensive in response to the October 7 attack by Hamas has killed more than 20,000 people in Gaza, the Palestinian Health Ministry said.

Meanwhile, fighting in Gaza was intense as Israel bombarded most of northern Gaza, with orange flashes and explosions being seen from a distance. Israeli planes also dropped bombs over central and southern Gaza, leading to plumes of smoke everywhere, residents said, Reuters reported. In Tel Aviv, Israel's commercial capital, sirens went off and rockets exploded overhead after they were intercepted by Israeli defences. Shrapnel fell on a school but no children were injured as they were in shelters, Israel's Ynet news site reported.

New North Korean nuclear reactor appears to be operational: IAEA

Since North Korea expelled its inspectors in 2009, the IAEA has been denied access to the country.

SEOUL, Dec 22 (Agencies): A second reactor at North Korea's Yongbyon nuclear facility appears to be operational, according to the UN atomic agency.

Yongbyon is North Korea's main nuclear complex and home to its first nuclear reactor, with a five-megawatt capacity, and has been the only known source of plutonium for its weapons programme.

A second one -- a light-water reactor -- now also appears to be operational, based on observations that warm water is being discharged from it, the International Atomic Energy Agency said in a statement released late on Thursday.

"The discharge of warm water is indicative the reactor has reached criticality," IAEA Director General Rafael Mariano Grossi said in a statement.

In the operation of a nuclear reactor, criticality is the state in which a nuclear chain reaction is self-sustaining, according to experts.

Since North Korea expelled its inspectors in 2009, the IAEA has been denied access to the country.

The agency has since been primarily relying on satellite imagery to monitor the North.

"Without access to the facility the Agency cannot confirm its operational status," Grossi said. He emphasised that the "construction and operation" of the light-water reactor (LWR) was against the United Nations Security Council resolutions and "deeply regrettable".

"The LWR, like any nuclear reactor, can produce plutonium in its irradiated fuel, which can be separated during reprocessing, so this is a cause for concern," Grossi said.

Plutonium, which is a primary material for nuclear weapons, is believed to be extracted through the reprocessing of spent fuel rods produced during the operation of the first nuclear reactor at Yongbyon.

Kim Dong-jin, a researcher at the Korea Atomic Energy Research Institute, confirmed to AFP that warm water discharge would indicate any reactor was operational "Warm water discharge is a common occurrence in operating light water reactors," Kim said.

"During the operation of a power plant, it is necessary to circulate cooling water. As a result. the water is heated."

South Korea's Yonhap news agency also reported that the IAEA statement suggested that a "larger light-water reactor" has begun operation at Yongbyon. North Korea conducted its first nuclear test in 2006 and carried out its sixth and most powerful one in September 2017. In March this year, Kim called for expanded production of "weapon-grade nuclear materials" as North Korea unveiled what appeared to be a new, smaller tactical nuclear warhead.

The country on Monday launched its solid-fuel Hwasong-18 intercontinental ballistic missile, the largest weapon in its arsenal.

Kim on Thursday also warned through the country's state media that Pyongyang will not hesitate to launch a nuclear attack if "provoked" with nukes.

Russian drones hit residential building in Ukraine's Kyiv, 2 injured

KYIV, Dec 22 (Agencies): Russian drones bore down on the city of Kyiv early on Friday, with Mayor Vitali Klitschko and other officials reporting strikes on widely separated residential districts. It was the sixth drone attack on the capital this month. At least two people were injured.

Klitschko said a drone had hit a block of flats in the Solomyanskyi district, south of the city centre, triggering a fire. Two people were injured, including one being treated in hospi-

"The upper floors are in flames. Emergency crews are on site,' Mavor Klitschko said. A video posted on social media showed a giant orange flame going skyward in the night.

Klitschko also said drone fragments had set fire to a house under construction in Darnytskyi district on the eastern bank of the Dnipro River that runs through the city. He said there were no injuries. Pictures posted online showed construction materials strewn about the site.

Serhiy Popko, head of Kyiv's military administration, reported fragments from a downed drone had struck an apartment building in a third area - Holosiivskyi district - also south of the city centre.

Popko posted pictures showing smashed windows and heavy damage to apartments.

Earlier, Vondrasek told journalists that more than 15 people lost their lives and at least 24 others were injured.

Police said on social media X that they are still investigating the identity of the victims, one of whom is a foreigner. The assailant has been eliminated.

According to the Czech News Agency (CTK), local police were informed that a young man from Hostoun in the Central Bohemia Region was to leave for Prague, saying he wanted to take his own life. About 25 minutes later, the young man's father was found dead in Hostoun, and the police consequently launched a search for the son as a suspect.

The police were also informed that the shooter was to give a lecture at the Faculty of Arts building on Celetna Street in Prague. Thus they evacuated the building, but the shooting took place in another one at Jan Palach Square, the CTK reported.

Czech Prime Minister Petr Fiala told media on Thursday evening that at the moment, the shooting seemed to be the act of a lone gunman, and it was neither international terrorism nor the act of an organised group.

Calling the shooting "a terrible act, unprecedented in the history of the Czech Republic," Interior Minister Vit Rakusan has said that there is no indication that the shooting was linked to international terrorism.

AI could help in early diagnosis of autism: Study

NEW YORK, Dec 22 (Agencies): Artificial intelligence (AI), coupled with data from an iPad colouring game, could assist in early diagnosis of autism, a new study shows. Researchers from the University of Southern California (USC) said the results indicate the potential for an easy and novel method for early detection of autism and developmental coordination disorder.

"This is especially important as motor signatures appear early in autism usually before social symptoms. And this methodology does not involve potential biasing by the assessor," said Lisa Aziz-

For example, developmental coordination disorder primarily a motor skills disorder has features that overlap with autism.

Children with autism spectrum disorder often have both motor and sensory deficits in addition to the social deficits that are the hallmark of the disorder.

For the study, published in the Journal of Autism and Developmental Disorders, 54 children between the ages of 8 and 17 took part in a five-minute colouring game on iPads. Eighteen had autism, 16 had developmental coordination disorder, and 20 were developing typically.

Researchers also were able to correctly distinguish between typical development and developmental coordination disorder with 78 per cent accuracy, and autism and developmental coordination disorder with 71 per cent accuracy.

The study was conducted in high-functioning children and adolescents with autism and needs to be replicated in larger, younger, and more diverse groups, researchers said.

Walmart invests $600 mn in Flipkart

Latter likely to receive another $400 million, new investors to join fresh funding round

BENGALURU, Dec 22 (Agencies): Homegrown ecommerce marketplace Flipkart has received $600 million fund infusion from parent company Walmart. Flipkart confirmed the fundraising to this newspaper. As per reports, the company might receive another $400 million funds and new investors will also join the fresh fundraising round. Though Flipkart didn't comment on this, it is said the funding will value the company at a premium of 5-10% from its current valuation. It was last valued at about $35 billion. Flipkart will use the funds to expand its operations. Flipkart co-founder Binny Bansal, Accel and Tiger Global Management in July exited the e-commerce firm and sold their shares to Walmart.

Earlier in July, Walmart in its filing said during the six months ended July 31, 2023, it paid $3.5 billion to acquire shares from certain Flipkart non-controlling interest holders. The US retail company paid about $1.4 billion to Tiger Global to buy its remaining shares in Flipkart. In 2018, Walmart paid about $16 billion for a 77% stake in the ecommerce firm, and according to Tracxn, Walmart now holds about 80.5% stake in the company.

Flipkart hived-off its payments entity PhonePe in December last year and in July, the company distributed cash payout worth $700 million to nearly 24,000 employees, including former employees. This is to compensate them for the separation of PhonePe from the ecommerce firm. In an earnings call in August, Walmart had said that both Flipkart and PhonePe are continuing to demonstrate impressive growth and Flipkart delivered strong GMV (gross merchandise value) and net sales growth as the core business continues to grow well.

The Flipkart Group includes group companies Flipkart, Myntra, Flipkart Wholesale, Flipkart Health+, and Cleartrip. It claims a registered user base of over 500 million, and there are over 14 lakh sellers on the platform, including Shopsy sellers. In FY23, Flipkart reported consolidated losses of Rs 4,890.6 crore and its consolidated net income stood at Rs 56,012.8 crore.

In its Flip Trends 2023, the homegrown ecommerce firm said that shoppers spent an average of 7 hours on Flipkart this year, and that the platform also witnessed over 41 million new customers up until November 2023. It also said that the company saw 100% growth in infant formula and premium skin care baby products which saw 50% growth in 2023.

Dr Jnanesh Thakkar, Director, Lung Transplantations, Minimal Invasive Lung Transplantations said, "The IPAH can be a combination influenced by genetic and environmental factors. There are treatments at the early stages of diagnosis that can help manage symptoms and improve the quality of life for a patient. However, at end-stage failure of the lungs, a transplantation of the lungs from a cadaver is a preferred option."

In Minimally Invasive Lung Transplantations, the cuts are made only on the sides. The sternum is not divided. Superstitions and stigma, lack of transplant coordinators, and lack of required infrastructure for certifying and maintaining brain-dead patients are the reasons behind the low donation numbers in India. While the lack of organ donation is one side of the story, the other is the lack of required processes, skilled experts, hospital infrastructure, and the lack of sufficient examples of long-term organ transplant survivors in the community who become role models for organ transplantation.

LONDON, Dec 22 (Agencies): Physical, sexual, or emotional abuse, or neglect, either alone or combined with other types of childhood trauma, increases the risk of chronic pain and related disability in adulthood, according to a new research.

The new findings underscore the urgency of addressing adverse childhood experiences (ACEs)-potentially traumatic events that occur before 18 years of age-and taking steps to mitigate their long-term impact on people's health.

ACEs may affect a child or teenager directly through physical, sexual, or emotional abuse, or neglect-or indirectly through exposure to environmental factors like domestic violence, living with substance abuse or parental loss. Chronic pain is one of the leading causes of disability worldwide.

Long-term painful conditions such as low back pain, arthritis, headache and migraine, can affect a person's daily functioning to the point they can't work, eat properly, or participate in physical activities.

For the study, published in the European Journal of Psychotraumatology, the team conducted a systematic review that included 85 studies.

Of those, results from 57 studies could be pooled in meta-analyses.

They found that individuals exposed to a direct ACE, whether physical, sexual, or emotional abuse, or neglect, were 45 per cent more likely to report chronic pain in adulthood compared to those not exposed.

Childhood physical abuse was associated with a higher likelihood of reporting both chronic pain and pain-related disability.

The odds of reporting chronic pain or pain-related disability in adulthood increased with exposure to any direct ACE, either alone or combined with indirect ACEs.

The risk of reporting chronic pain in adulthood significantly increased from exposure to one ACE to four or more ACEs. "These results underscore the urgency of addressing ACES, particularly in light of their prevalence and health repercussions," said Prof Jan Hartvigsen, from the University of Southern Denmark.

"A more nuanced understanding of the precise relationship between ACEs and chronic pain will empower healthcare professionals and policymakers to devise targeted strategies to help diminish the long-term impact of earlylife adversity on adult health.'

The researchers proposed that future research should delve into the biological mechanisms through which ACEs affect health across the lifespan, aiming to deepen understanding and develop ways to mitigate their impact.

Experts reveal why

The viral infection, mumps, presents as fever followed by painful swelling of both areas around the ears.

NEW DELHI, Dec 22 (Agencies): There has been a rise in cases of mumps in children in several parts of the country including Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, making it a matter of concern for parents.

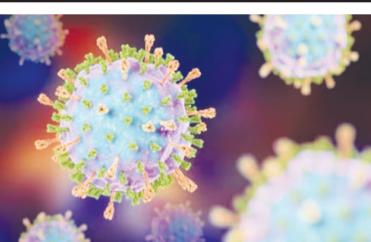

The viral infection, mumps, presents as fever followed by painful swelling of both areas around the ears. It begins with non-specific symptoms such as low-grade fever, malaise, headache and loss of appetite, lasting around 3 to 4 days.

This is followed by inflammation of the parotid glands located on both sides of the face, causing pain, swelling and tenderness in the cheek and jaw area, which typically lasts from 7 to 14 days.

It is caused by paramyxovirus, a member of the Rubulavirus family.

"Mothers are at increased risk if they are infected during the first trimester, which could result in miscarriage. If they were immunised or had mumps during childhood then there is no need to worry.

Other complications of mumps, more severe than orchitis and more common in unvaccinated individuals, include pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas), meningitis, encephalitis (inflammation of the brain), and myocarditis (inflammation of the heart muscle)," Dr Prashant

Udavant, Paediatrician, Neonatologist at Ruby Hall Clinic, told IndiaToday.In.

Though less frequently reported, these complications can lead to intensive care unit (ICU) admissions and result in prolonged effects like deafness and heart failure.

Mumps usually spread if there is a history of contact with another child with mumps in the school or at home, followed by fever and neck swelling.

Consulting a doctor and immediate quarantine are importnat steps when a child is infected with mumps.

Dr Rupkatha Sen, Chief Intensivist, Critical Care, SRV Hospitals, Chembur, told IndiaToday. In the reason for this increase in mumps cases is the decline in vaccination rates.

"Mumps is a preventable viral infection, and routine immunisation is crucial for maintaining herd immunity. If a significant number of children are not vaccinated or are under-vaccinated, the virus can easily spread within communities," said Dr Rupkatha Sen.

The expert added that another reason for this rise is the "waning immunity over time."

"The mumps vaccine usually administered in childhood, may offer protection for a certain period. However, as time passes, immunity may decrease, leaving individuals susceptible to the virus," said Dr Sen.

Additionally, variations in vaccine coverage and access to healthcare can lead to pockets of vulnerable populations where the virus can circulate more easily.

Social and environmental factors may also play a role. "Increased contact among children in schools or other communal settings provides opportunities for the virus to spread. Poor hygiene practices and inadequate sanitation can further facilitate transmission," added Dr Sen.

Preventive measures

Ensuring sufficient hydration by drinking plenty of fluids orally to prevent dehydration. A soft diet is recommended to ease discomfort while chewing. Getting adequate bed rest.

Applying scrotal support and ice packs to reduce inflammation, especially in cases involving swelling of the testicles.

Using cold compresses on the parotid glands to alleviate swelling.

Taking non-steroidal antiinflammatory drugs to manage pain and reduce inflammation. Preventing secondary bacterial infections.

Considering the use of steroids in extremely complex and severe cases.

Mandatory MMR (Measles, Mumps and Rubella)vaccination has been introduced by the IAP (Indian Academy of Paediatrics) This has significantly decreased the number of complications in mumps cases.

However, as the virus spreads through infected respiratory droplets, it's crucial to implement contact isolation for affected individuals to prevent a mumps outbreak, suggested the experts.

Unfortunately haven't been able to give Samson chance at No. 3: KL Rahul

Samson, elevated to No.3 spot, smashed his maiden ODI century in the third and final match against the Proteas on Thursday as India won by 78 runs to wrap up the series 2-1

PAARL (SOUTH AFRICA), Dec 22 (Agencies): India captain KL Rahul conceded that a "phenomenal" Sanju Samson was finding it difficult to find a place in the side as stalwarts in the team occupy key spots, adding that he was pleased the talented cricketer grabbed his chance in the series against the Proteas.

Samson, elevated to No.3 spot, smashed his maiden ODI century in the third and final match against the Proteas on Thursday as India won by 78 runs to wrap up the series 2-1.

"Pleased for Sanju, he's been a phenomenal performer in the IPL over the years. Unfortunately, we haven't been able to give him the chance at No. 3, because obviously there are stalwarts in the ODIs who occupy those key spots.

"Glad he was able to grab his chances here," said Rahul following the big win.

Samson's measured 108 (114 balls) and Tilak Varma's patient 52 (77 balls) guided India to a competitive 296 for eight. South Africa challenged the tourists through a fifty by Tony de Zorzi (81, 87 balls) but were eventually bowled out for 218 in 45.5 overs Samson didn't get the opportunity in the first ODI as the target set by South Africa was very low, while in the second match, the wicketkeeper-batter scored 12 coming in at No.5. But in the decider, he was elevated to No.3 as Virat Kohli is not touring with the ODI side.

Rahul added the focus of the team will now shift to the two-Test series beginning in Centurion on December 26. Regular skipper Rohit Sharma and Kohli will be back in the side and Rahul will be the first-choice keeper.

"Will celebrate with the the boys and then switch back to focusing on the Test series in a day or two. Love being around the boys, that's how it's been game and made the seniors proud.

"The whole country is very proud of how Tilak Verma has stepped up, lots more expected from him. The seniors have set the standards of Indian cricket and the juniors are coming in and doing the job. It's not very easy, travelling in between and playing every 2-3 days but they're getting the job done."

Left-arm pacer Arshdeep Singh, who returned sublime figures of 4 for 30 to add to the five-for in the first ODI, said the IPL experience had made him a much better cricketer.

"The plan was simple, it was to bowl wicket-to-wicket and get lbws and bowled. Sometimes when there isn't anything happening on the wicket, you need some support from the umpires, that's why I had to appeal a lot," said the 'Player of the Series' for his 10 wickets.

"IPL has been a very good platform for us youngsters, there isn't a big gap between IPL and international cricket. You understand the mindset of international cricketers and it helps. We are all loving the chances we've got. We'd love to give our all in the future as well and do well," he added.

Last 3-4 months were mentally challenging, grateful for maiden ODI ton: Samson

PAARL, Dec 22 (Agencie): India wicket-keeper batter Sanju Samson revealed that the past three-four months have been mentally challenging for him but he kept at it by working on himself and bounced back by scoring his maiden ODI ton.

Samson was overlooked for the ODI World Cup in India with selectors preferring to go with the likes of Ishan Kishan and Survakumar Yadav despite the Kerala batter averaging 55.7 with a strike rate of 104 in 13 ODI innings.

"The last three, four months were challenging for me mentally," Sanju said after the 78-run win on Thursday.

"So going through all that and coming here I think doing what I did today, I think I feel really happy and grateful." Samson was also not picked for the Asian Games, indicating that he is really low in the selectors' pecking order.

On Thursday, however, he took things in his own hand and scored his maiden ODI century to help India win the third game and clinch the series 2-1 against South Africa.

"I've been blessed in my genes. My father is also a sportsman, so how much ever setbacks you have, I think there's always no other way to come back and bounce back... think how much you can work on yourself and how you can come back more strongly," he added.

Elevated to the number three spot. Samson, who scored a measured 108, joined forces with Tilak Varma (52) to take India to a competitive target. "Honestly, I think I was not looking at the scorecard. Until I had a partnership with Tilak till then I just wanted to play and like go with the merit. I just watched the ball and bat and the boundaries and the scoring options ultimately happened.

"So I was just focused on the process and plaving one ball at a time and then I think the scorecard kept on ticking.

"When Tilak came in when we both had a tough four or five overs where I think (Keshav) Maharaj, was bowling the best. I think both the ends were a bit tight. That's when we thought that we need to go on and take some risks at the moment."

Asked how he kept his calm during the knock, Samson said, "I don't know actually. It comes very naturally to me.

"It's very important to make really good decisions. When you are calm and when you are aware of your thoughts, emotions of your physical being and mental being that helps me to make some really good decisions."

The home side looked on course for victory before the Indian pacers, led by left-armer Arshdeep Singh, bowled the South Africans out for 218 in 45.5 overs.

"I think the power-play, the way South African openers batted, I thought they are taking the game away five overs before.

"But after that when our fast bowlers came in between, and the ball I think was maintained nicely by all the teammates... the fast bowlers also hit some proper areas to get those crucial wickets of David (Miller) and crucial wickets were important for us."

ICC reprimands Australia batter Usman Khawaja over black armband to support Palestinians in Gaza

SYDNEY, Dec 22 (Agencie): Australia batter Usman Khawaja has been reprimanded by the International Cricket Council for wearing a black armband in support of Palestinians in Gaza during the first cricket Test against Pakistan.

ICC regulations prevent cricketers from displaying messages of political, religious or racial causes during international matches.

Khawaja was born in Pakistan and is the first Muslim to play Test cricket for Australia.

An ICC spokesperson confirmed the charge in breach first Test match against Pakistan without seeking the prior approval of Cricket Australia and the ICC to display it, as required in the regulations for personal messages," it said.

"This is a breach under the category of another breach and the sanction for a first offence is a reprimand."

The charge means Khawaja can accept a warning and continue to play. However, he faces additional sanctions if he wears the armband again in the second Test against Pakistan beginning in Melbourne on for votes, not even a hint of unrest among the 47 voters who came to the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) house for the election. Everything was calm, and there lied the biggest clue that the parties had come to an understanding. Since the day the Supreme Court vacated the stay on the election, there had been murmurs of backchannel parleys a few seats were to be sacrificed to pacify the protesting wrestlers, including Bajrang Punia, Sakshi Malik and Vinesh Phogat.

While Sanjay Singh won the top post by an overwhelming margin of 40-7 votes, the results of two other posts showed that it was indeed a fixed match. Prem Chand Lochab and Devinder Kadian were elected as secretary general and senior vice-president, respectively, of the WFI's new executive body.

A source told agency that outgoing president Brij Bhushan was asked to accommodate both Lochab and Kadian, who are BJP party members in Haryana. And when Brij Bhushan publicly thanked the Union Government for paving the way for today's election, there was no doubt in anyone's minds that the government engineered this fix.

the government that cleared the way for today as they pleaded to restart the election process with the Supreme Court. The Sports Ministry also opposed the stay by the Punjab & Haryana High Court and today I want to congratulate the government, the ministry that free and fair elections could be held today," he added

Two-time Asian Games gold medallist Kartar Singh was elected as a vice-president after getting 44 votes, the highest in the elections. Other than Sheoran, who could only tally seven votes, the other losers in today's elections were the protesting wrestlers, who had made it a personal fight to see that none of the Brij Bhushan loyalists got elected into the new body. The results did not sit well with them as they questioned the government for failing to act on their assurances. "The Sports Minister (Anurag Thakur) said on camera in January that neither Brij Bhushan nor his people will be part of the new body," Bajrang said. "But results unfortunately show that it has not been done. I do not feel that we will get justice for the girls as the system worked to break the unity of the complainants. It is still happened today, I think he will get a favourable verdict from the court as well. I still believe in the courts. We fought and this fight has to be continued for the next two generations. We fought with all our might but whatever assurances the government gave to us, they did not fulfill. It is sad that we need to fight to get justice," he added.

Threat, allegations

Bajrang also raised the spectre that those who ioined the protests may perish in accidents or face allegations to tarnish their image.

"Those who joined us, coaches and wrestlers, our careers are doomed now. We may face an incident like a car accident or wild allegations. Wait and watch, it will start to happen now. We have seen how powerful he is. We do not know whether we will get justice," Bajrang said.

"We fought but we lost today but someone needs to continue this fight. Vinesh just said that despite Bhagat Singh's sacrifice it took us a number of years to get independence. We do not know when we will get independence in wrestling. We are doubtful that we will be allowed to continue in wrestling because all his people have been elected today," he added.

CAPE TOWN, Dec 22 (Agencie): Former South Africa captain Dean Elgar has said that he will retire from international cricket after playing the twomatch Test series against India at home. Elgar is set to conclude his international career following the Test series against India at home, as announced by Cricket South Africa (CSA) on Friday, December 22nd.

"Playing the game of cricket has always been a dream of mine but having the opportunity to represent your country is the ultimate!" Elgar said in his statement. "Having had the privilege to do it for 12 years internationally is simply beyond my wildest dreams. It has been an incredible journey that I have been fortunate enough to have.

"As they say, 'all good things come to an end', and the Indian home series will be my last, as I have made the decision to retire from our beautiful game. A game that has given me so much. The Cape Town Test will be my last. My favourite stadium in the world. A place I scored my first Test run against New Zealand and hopefully my last too."

Elgar is set to play 86 Test matches after featuring in both games against India, marking a 12-year career that has seen him accumulate 5146 runs. This places him as South Africa's eighth-highest run-scorer in Test cricket, with only eight players crossing the 5000-run mark. He trails Mark Boucher, the seventh-highest, by 352 runs.

However, his decision to play these Tests means he'll miss South Africa's two-Test series in New Zealand. This absence creates a challenge as key players will be engaged in the SA20 league, leaving the team with a makeshift lineup. Elgar, without an SA20 deal, would have been a valuable addition and potentially considered for captaincy in Temba Bavuma's stead. Instead. the Titans' batsman Neil Brand is anticipated to lead the squad, partnering with Tony de Zorzi at the top of the batting order. This pairing showcased their opening prowess for South Africa A against West Indies A in a recent threematch series.

NZ vs BAN: Kane Williamson, Kyle Jamieson withdrawn from Bangladesh T20I series

WELLINGTON, Dec 22 (Agencie): New Zealand have withdrawn Kane Williamson and Kyle Jamieson from their upcoming T20I series against Bangladesh. The Black Caps took the decision as a precautionary measure before the Test series against South Africa and Australia.

The 33-year-old Williamson was earlier named as the Kiwis' skipper for the series, but will now be replaced by Mitchell Santner. Williamson returned to competitive cricket in the World Cup after facing injury concerns over the last seven months or so. Jamieson, on the other hand, has had issues with his hamstring and New Zealand refrained from taking a chance with him in the Bangladesh T20I series.

"We want both Kane and Kyle to be in the best possible place leading into the next block of Test cricket against South Africa and Australia. Based on discussions with the medical staff and the players it was decided a period of rehabilitation and conditioning was the best option for both of them," New Zealand coach Gary Stead was quoted as saying.

The hosts, in the meantime, have roped in fast bowler Jacob Duffy and talented all-rounder Rachin Ravindra for the upcoming series.

"Jacob is an experienced T20 cricketer and always brings a lot when he is part of the Black Caps environment. He's worked very hard on his white ball skills in recent seasons. Rachin adds to any environment he's a part of and has a great desire to learn and develop his game - across all three formats," Stead added. New Zealand's opening T20I against the Tigers is on Wednesday, December 27 at the McLean Park in Napier. Mount Maunganui will host the other two T20Is on December 29 and December 31 respectively.
